

Privacy Policy

Taxinca.com (the “Company” or “we”) has established this Privacy Policy to address how your information is collected, protected and used. This Privacy Policy may be updated at any time by the Company with notice of materially significant changes posted to the site (www.taxinca.com).

Your Privacy

We do not, and have never, sold or shared customer or user contact information with third parties for the marketing of third-party products and services. We may share necessary information with third parties, such as shipping companies or financial gateways, to complete an order. We may, where permitted by law, provide information to credit bureau. We or one of our authorized agents may also use personal information to market and sell our products and services. We may disclose information, when requested, to comply with court orders, subpoenas, or other legal process. We will also share information when in our good faith belief such disclosure is reasonably necessary to enforce our Terms and Conditions of Use Agreement; respond to claims that any content violates the rights of third parties; or protect the rights, property, or personal safety of the Company, its users, customers, or the general public.

Certain sections of the site may be password protected. You are responsible for keeping your password safe.

Information We Collect and Use

We collect and use user, visitor, and customer information such as name, email address, address, phone number, fax number, url and other information if provided. We may collect your personal information if you provide it in feedback or comments, post it in our listings or site, or contact us directly. When you visit our site, we may track information including the domain name and the name of the Web page from which you entered our site, which pages and how much time you spend on each page in our site. We may collect the IP address (a number that is assigned to your computer when you are using your browser for the Internet) from you when you visit our sites, along with page URL and timestamp.

We may employ tracking devices such as “cookies,” “Web beacons,” “one-pixel gifs,” or “clear gifs,” for marketing purposes on our site and to monitor the activity on our site. A cookie is a small file that is stored on the hard drive of your computer ready for future access when you return to our site. We may use cookies to deliver Web content specific to you and to keep track of your online activity on our site. We use cookies as part of the normal functionality of our private password-only section for registered users (for example, to identify whether a user has logged-in or is logged-out). We may use clear gifs in emails we send to determine which ones are opened to measure the effectiveness of our marketing efforts. We may use third parties to act on our behalf to collect such information on our site for our use.

We may send you email for marketing purposes. You may opt-out by notifying us by email, in writing, or by calling us. In addition, such emails contain a link to notify us not to send such email to you in the future. Other emails are sent in direct response to your activities at the site such as registration, your inquiries, feedback, etc, and may not contain such an opt-out link.

Data Storage

We attempt to archive all information in our database and posted to our site, as well as any web logs and other records. Registered users and customers can access and update their account information through the Advertiser Section or by contacting us. We do not store credit card information on our site.

Although we make a good faith effort to store any non-publicly available personal information in a secure environment that is not available to the public, we cannot guarantee complete security.

Feedback

We always welcome your feedback to this or any other aspect of our services or site.

Consent

By using our site, services, or providing us with personal information or data, you consent to the transfer and use of such information and data in accordance with this Privacy Policy.
